

The Asian Journal on Mediation

Call for Papers

The general editors are inviting submissions for the Asian Journal on Mediation 2024, which is slated for publication in November 2024.

Prospective authors are encouraged to submit their papers on or before 1 June 2024.

About the Asian Journal on Mediation

The journal aims to advance the practice and development of mediation and mediation techniques in Asia. Its goal is to be a forum for practitioners of mediation in Asia to share their ideas, practices and techniques in mediation. Through the exchange of diverse experiences and ideas, and the exploration of the different contexts in which mediation takes place, it is hoped that there will be an increased understanding of mediation and the promise that it holds.

The journal is published by the Singapore Mediation Centre (“SMC”) which determines its editorial policy in consultation with its General Editors, Professor Joel Lee, Professor Lawrence Boo and Associate Professor Dorcas Quek Anderson. It is a peer reviewed journal and its content is governed by its General Editors.

The journal is distributed widely, giving authors an excellent opportunity to reach a large audience.

Form of Submissions

The journal accepts articles, practice notes (including comments on mediation developments, recent cases or legislation) and book reviews. Articles should have a minimum of 5,000 words, while notes and book reviews should have a minimum of 1,000 and 800 words respectively.

Submission Guidelines

Please submit contributions electronically in Microsoft Word format to smc_enquiries@sal.org.sg. For full guidelines, visit the journal’s Editorial Policy Guidelines and Author’s Guide.
